We believe in bringing entertainment to life for our customers in a safe, responsible, and sustainable way. Our purpose is to deliver a vibrant and safe sports betting and gaming experience to our customers around the world. Our operations range from sports bookmaking to gaming, with exchanges, poker, fantasy sports, and B2B in between.

Our commitment to preventing modern slavery

At Flutter, we recognise that modern slavery is a global threat that imposes an intolerable burden on those affected by it and that every step must be taken to reduce the suffering it causes. It is incumbent on all organisations to ensure that their operations remain free from this invidious practice. We are committed to conducting our relationships to the highest ethical and moral standards and acting with integrity and professionalism in all our activities.

Scope and coverage of this statement

This statement has been published in accordance with the Modern Slavery Act 2015 (the "Act"). It sets out the steps taken by Flutter Entertainment plc and our subsidiaries during the year ending 31 December 2022 to prevent modern slavery and human trafficking in our business and supply chains.

This statement has been approved and adopted by the Board of Flutter Entertainment plc, as well as each of the Group's subsidiaries that meet this requirement under the Act (as set out in the Appendix).

As part of our commitment to improving our performance by sharing best practice across our businesses we assess, monitor and mitigate risks relating to slavery and human trafficking on a Group-wide basis, with individual divisions and operating companies taking specific actions where appropriate to the level of risk. In line with this, our statement also applies to all our businesses which are not legally required to make a statement under the Act, regardless of their location, size or turnover.

Governance and due diligence

We invest significant time to put in place the appropriate processes, policies and governance structures that guide us in everything we do. Flutter recognises that modern slavery in all its forms is a complex problem with no single root cause which requires a holistic range of preventative measures. Our governance and diligence measures to mitigate risk of modern slavery and human trafficking include the following:

- Our Code of Ethics clearly states our commitment to ensure that we operate in a way that respects, protects and champions the human rights of all those who come into contact with our operations. The Code of Ethics contains specific provision in relation to identifying and reporting any risk or suspected incidence of modern slavery within the Group's operations.
- The Group Financial Crime Minimum Standards for Third Party Relationship Management outlines requirements to ensure suppliers are screened for modern slavery risk.
- Our Procurement Policy requires that, in assessing the suitability of a supplier or partner partnership, staff are directed to have specific regard to any risk of modern slavery posed by the new supplier.

- We have robust employee due diligence processes in place and conduct background and verification checks on all employees and contractors to mitigate the risk of slavery and trafficking. All new hires are subject to verification checks, including national ID/passport checks, education checks, and right to work documentation.
- Our Employee Code of Conduct encourages employees and contractors to identify and report any suspicions of modern slavery taking place.
- We have a Whistleblowing Policy to ensure that employees and contractors can voice any concerns that they may have without fear of suffering any detrimental treatment.

Risk assessment and management

Flutter operates an entertainment business that is predominantly online based, with some retail presence and live events in countries, generally at low risk of modern slavery. Most of our procurement spend is in skilled sectors with a similarly low-risk profile. We also abide by all relevant domestic employment legislation in the countries where our staff are employed.

We have made considerable progress in continuing to strengthen and develop our risk management processes and procedures during 2022. We recognise that, with the size and scale of our business, there is a risk that some suppliers may have issues deeper within their own supply chain. We will continue to extend the monitoring of our suppliers for non-compliance with our commitment to preventing modern slavery and we will be particularly vigilant in relation to suppliers in higher-risk countries and sectors.

Our supply chain

Flutter's supply chain is large, encompassing more than 10,000 suppliers globally. Most of our supply chain spend is in skilled sectors such as professional services, marketing, and information technology. The top countries of origin for our suppliers include the UK, Ireland, USA and Australia.

To date, thousands of entities and individuals in Flutter's supply chain have been screened for risks associated with modern slavery. We continued to focus efforts on extending the tools we employ to more effectively screen our suppliers for risk or exposure to instances of forced labour and human trafficking. We extended the use of this tool this year to include monitoring of suppliers more broadly across the business, commensurate with their risk profile. The screening is not just performed on entities but can be extended to directors and beneficial owners. This allows us to screen new and existing suppliers more effectively against a range of harmful activities, including the risk of modern slavery within their operations. If a supplier is found to exhibit a risk of such practices in its operations, our procurement process requires immediate further investigation to take place with the outcome that the relationship be immediately terminated should any presence of slavery in the supplier's operations be confirmed.

None of the screenings have revealed any confirmed instances of modern slavery in relation to the screened parties in 2022. Additionally, there have been no calls regarding modern slavery to Flutter's confidential reporting mechanism outlined above in 2022. Flutter is committed to continuing to screen for such practices and will continue to be proactive in monitoring our business for breaches.

Training and reporting

In 2022, a modern slavery training module was developed which will be rolled out in December 2022. Additionally, all HR staff are appropriately trained in the relevant procedures applicable to the risk of modern slavery in the recruitment process.

Any material legal, operational or reputational issues can be reported via an international, independent, whistleblowing service. HR processes are in place to manage any risk in the recruitment process and escalate accordingly.

Our future commitments

- To review and update our modern slavery statement every year in line with our commitment to ensuring that our business and supply chain remain free from any association with breaches of the Act;
- To continue to develop our policies and processes to ensure our approach remains commensurate with our risk profile; and
- To monitor changes in our business and in the environments in which we operate to capture and manage any new or evolving risks so that our zero-tolerance approach to modern slavery is maintained.
